Project description:

The goal of the project is to reinforce the role of the civil society and position it as effective force to prevent and combat Gender-Based and Domestic Violence and Provide Access to Support for Survivors (PASS). To achieve this goal, the project will work in three directions: (1) improving existing regulatory framework; (2) increasing population's awareness and (3) providing support to the victims of GBV and DV.

Expected results:

As the result of the project, policy and legislative framework will become more protective against SGBV/DV and with the implementation of oversight and monitoring mechanisms, Government entities/agencies accountability will significantly improve. Furthermore, harmful perceptions and stereotypes regarding gender-based norms will be decreased, awareness will be increased about SGBV/DV and its prevention mechanisms, resulting in better resilience of the community against gender-based violence. Women, exposed to SGBV/DV will gain economic strength and/or independence, will have access to legal support, enabling them to leave violent environments for their safety and safety of their children.
