Project description:

Protecting rights of persons with disability has long been one of the key components of human rights programming of the EU in Georgia.

The project aims to support the protection and promotion of the rights of persons with various disabilities through increased access to social services. It also promotes socio-economic support to persons with disability and their families and increases opportunities to participate in entrepreneurial activities.

The project introduces innovative consultancy service, “disabled to disabled”, which means training persons with disabilities to enforce their competence and confidence to provide essential information and services to other disabled persons and their families who face similar barriers and challenges.

The project:

- Studies gaps hindering effective operation of local government consultancy councils on disability matters and builds their capacity;
- Develops guidebook on disability rights and available services for persons with disability, CSOs/DPOs and local

Expected results:

- Targeted PR campaign and debates resulting in raised public awareness.
- Study of existing gaps and best practices of protection of rights of people with disability on local government level, strengthening capacity through a series of training.
- Empowering women, who take care of their disabled family members, by involving them in decision-making processes on local level.
- Contribution to the provision of targeted and demand based social services to the persons with disability in the remote areas of Georgia.
