Project description:
The project is focused at building capacity of relevant state- and non-state actors as well as addiction and mental health (MH) multidisciplinary services, assuring access to quality services for children, adolescents, youth and adults in need; promoting rights-based policies, strategies and practices for people who use drugs (PWUD) with the special focus on women; empowering disadvantaged communities and maintaining advocacy and the effective dialogue between relevant stakeholders.

Expected results:
1. Strengthened national capacity & institutional mechanisms and filled in service gaps in the system of crime and drug prevention among children, adolescents and youth, resulting in their healthier and pro-social developmental trajectories.
2. Assured rights-based and needs-tailored policies, strategies and treatment & psychosocial rehabilitation services for people who use drugs (PWUD) with the special focus on women, resulting in their increased life quality and social integration.
3. Empowered disadvantaged communities with healthy lifestyle and community safety promotion strategies and assured effective dialogue between community stakeholders, resulting in increased community cohesion, resilience and safety.
